Income Tax sections & Forms (For Charitable & Religious Institutions)

Section 12A

Section 12A is the basic registration required for a charitable or religious trust to get income tax exemption. It allows the trust to claim that its income used for charitable or religious purposes should not be taxed. If a trust does not have this registration, the Income Tax Department will treat it like a normal business and tax its income.

Section 12AA

Section 12AA was the earlier procedure used by the Income Tax Department to check whether a trust's activities were genuine before granting tax exemption. This section applied only up to 2021 and is no longer in force. Trusts registered under this section were later shifted to the new system.

Section 12AB

Section 12AB is the current registration system introduced from 2021 for charitable and religious institutions. Under this section, trusts must apply online and renew their registration periodically. It helps the department review activities regularly while allowing the trust to continue enjoying tax exemption.

Form 10AC

Form 10AC is the official certificate issued by the Income Tax Department after approving registration under Section 12AB or 80G. It contains important details such as the trust's PAN, approval number, and validity period. This form serves as documentary proof of tax-exempt status.

Section 10(23C)

Section 10(23C) provides tax exemption to certain educational, medical, and specified religious institutions as an alternative to Sections 12A and 12AB. Institutions opting for this route must follow prescribed conditions and file required audit reports annually to continue the exemption.

Form 10BB

Form 10BB is the audit report required for institutions claiming exemption under Section 10(23C). It is submitted by a chartered accountant to confirm that income has been used properly for approved purposes. Filing this form helps retain the exemption benefit.

ITR-7

ITR-7 is the income tax return specifically meant for charitable and religious trusts. Even if the entire income is exempt, filing this return is compulsory. It ensures that the trust remains compliant with income tax laws.

Section 192

Section 192 deals with tax deduction at source on salaries paid to employees. If an employee's salary crosses the taxable limit, the institution must deduct tax before payment. This ensures timely collection of tax on salary income.

Section 194

Section 194 requires tax deduction at source on payments made to contractors and professionals. When payments exceed the specified limits, TDS must be deducted by the institution. This section helps bring such income into the tax system.

Section 194A

Section 194A applies to interest payments made by the institution to depositors or lenders. When interest crosses the prescribed annual limit, tax must be deducted before payment. It supports advance tax collection on interest income.

Form 24Q

Form 24Q is a quarterly return that reports TDS deducted on employee salaries. It includes salary details and tax deducted for each quarter of the financial year. Filing this form ensures employees receive proper tax credit.

Form 26Q

Form 26Q is the quarterly TDS return for non-salary payments such as contractor fees, professional charges, or interest. It must be filed whenever TDS is deducted under applicable sections. Proper filing avoids penalties and notices.

Form 13

Form 13 is used to apply for a certificate allowing lower or nil TDS deduction. Charitable trusts or eligible persons file it to prevent excess tax deduction. This helps manage cash flow and reduces refund delays.
